See the Programs \(Census\) article to learn how to use this tool.

Programs entered for a student in Census > People > Programs are accessible in Student Information > General > Programs for users who have tool rights allowing this access.

Census > People > Programs

Anyone with a Census record can be assigned a program in Census > People. For example, a school or district may host community education opportunities on-site and wish to track non-student participants. Staff can search by person, student, household or staff.

Available Tool Rights

R	W	A	D
Access and view Program records.	Edit existing Program records.	Add a new Program record.	Delete a Program record.

Things to Consider: Programs (Census) and Programs (Student)

Schools may wish to give rights to both of these tools to staff who need to see, enter, and/or maintain program information for students, staff, and other people who may participate in them.

Staff who do not have rights to see programs that are state reported or that have sessions in Student Information > General > Programs will still see this information in Census > People > Programs if they have been given rights to that tool.

Example

This is an example of what a staff member who has been given rights in both areas would see. See the Programs \(Student\) Tool Rights article for more examples specific to that tool.

Census > People > Programs: RWAD
