

Tuition Feature in Household Member Settings

The Household Members editor in Census includes a Tuition checkbox to support the Tuition feature. This checkbox is used to account for students in households for eligibility in multi-student discounts for households. To calculate discounts accurately, the system needs to know whether a student in a household should count toward the family’s student total. For example, in a split household, one parent may claim the student for discount purposes while the other does not. The checkbox allows you to set this at the household level.

When Tuition is turned on, a script automatically applies the checkbox setting to all existing households. For any new households or household members, you’ll need to set it manually as appropriate.

The screenshot displays the 'Household Members' editor interface. At the top, it shows the household name 'Abegg' with ID 13287 and phone number (763)555-0199. Below this is a table titled 'Household Member Editor' with columns for Name, Start Date, End Date, Secondary, Private, and Tuition. The table lists several members, all with 'Tuition' set to 'X'. Below the table is a 'Household Member Detail' section for 'Abegg, Donald L.', showing fields for Start Date (06/07/2019), End Date, and checkboxes for Secondary, Private, and Tuition (checked).
